The AAMBFS MBA program offers different majors in the business and finance sectors. Blending theory and practice, the MBA program is delivered by the highest of professional calibers in the Arab world, who excel in their majors, each in their specialty. Therefore, bringing its students hands-on experience to excel in their chosen fields.The MBA program will inspire you to advance your career and make the change you've been aspiring to. Our approach is to not only boost the academic knowledge of our students, but also provide them with well-grounded practical experience to assume leadership roles in their career. The MBA program will inspire you to advance your career and make the change you've been aspiring to. The program consists of ten modules with five different specializations; Financial Markets, Financial Management Marketing, Business Administration and Human Resources; all running through 48 credit hours. Degree awarded: Master of Business Administration Total credit hours: 48 hours It used to be that top corporations picked up MBA graduates as fast as schools could slap mortarboards on their heads. These young guns drove corporate reorganization, product innovation and marketing and implemented new styles of leadership. They were a symbol of a new culture, and anyone serious about a career in business aspired to earn those three letters. Today, the power of the MBA is not so certain. Many in corporate America and academia say the degree that once defined bright, snappy leadership now symbolizes a discipline that has lost touch with the business world. They argue that MBA programs have become too focused on research, and that in-house training at large firms has more practical applications. They claim the programs have failed to create the types of leaders who can deal with globalization; some say they don't develop leaders at all, just functionaries. Other critics think a focus on profit and share value, rather than on ethics and sustainability, fostered the type of narrow-minded thinking that led to the fall of Enron and the last recession.
